

Speaking at cf.Objective

Posted At : January 6, 2012 4:59 PM | Posted By : nolan

Related Categories: Programming, ColdFusion

I was very pleased to receive an email last week stating that my presentation got approved, and now it's official...I'm speaking at this year's cf.Objective conference in Minneapolis!

I'll be giving my talk on "Intro to Model View Controllers Without A Framework" that I gave at NCDevCon in September (as well as a few local user groups). If you're still not quite sure what to make of CFComponents, or what all the fuss is about with MVC frameworks like Model-Glue or ColdBox, then this is the place to be. This will be an updated version of my talk, including more info on "Service Layers", and probably some additional sample code too.

Two years ago was my first trip to cf.Objective (I couldn't make it last year); it was a great experience. I'm hoping to meet more people in the CF community, and am especially looking forward to the Arm Wrestling BoF Session. :)

See you there!

-Nolan